

LTS Reunion

2009

Greetings! My name is Michael O'Connor and I am the current Learn to Sail Director here at the Lunenburg Yacht Club. A few years ago I showed up at the Club and began my progress from Greenie (don't know if they use that term anymore) to Skipper and worked my way through the levels, White to Silver (they do still use those terms).

For many of us the summers we spent together at the Lunenburg Yacht Club were some of the best summers of our lives! Over the years we've bumped into one another and spent time catching up and recalling old memories. Unfortunately, life being what it is, many of us have drifted away and have not had the opportunity to get down to the club and catch up as often or with as many old friends as we would like. The Learn to Sail Advisory Committee thought it would be fun if we could schedule a weekend every summer where everyone could get together with their old friends from the program and catch up.

We would like to have that weekend this summer beginning on Friday, July 31 and ending on Sunday, August 2. We'll post a more detailed schedule here on the website at a later date but the loose plans are to have a meet and greet on Friday night, the Jr/Sr regatta on Saturday (open to everyone), a family barbecue on Saturday night and invite everyone to participate in the Sunday afternoon race or just come down to the club and hang around on Sunday. As well, we will provide Learn to Sail boats for anyone who wants to bring a kid and introduce them to sailing.

We're also trying to organize a database of everyone that ever went thru the program so if you follow the link you can see the information we have gathered from the various years so far. Please take the time to help us update these records and send us any info you might be able to contribute. We're counting on word of mouth or email to get the word out so please contact anyone you're still in touch with and ask them to get in touch with Anne Bailly or Kris Burns (LTS Reunion Weekend Organizers) at ltsreunion@lyc.ns.ca.

Thanks and see you this summer!
